More than a decade ago, with the input of multiple libraries, we developed the world’s largest online collection of law periodicals. In the spirit of that tremendous achievement, we had a new vision. We again partnered with libraries to create the world’s largest collection of constitutions and constitutional documents.

Focusing on the study of historic and current constitutions of governments, this database enables scholars to research constitutional and political developments of the nations of our world. This database provides access to all types of documents about constitutions and allows libraries to contribute!
World Constitutions Illustrated contains thousands of contemporary and historical documents, as well as many features to enable one to browse and search across constitutional law of more than 190 countries. This is a picture of what is included:

- Current constitution of every country.
- Constitutional histories of all countries.
- Thousands of books on constitutional law, with specific chapters tied to specific countries.
- Thousands of articles about constitutional development.
- Links to online resources related to political development.
- Bibliographies of constitutional monographs.

As this collection continues to grow, hundreds of additional documents and books will be integrated into the database. We will continue working to complete the constitutional hierarchy for every country, as well as adding books, periodicals, articles, commentary and more! We are continuing to work with libraries to provide every available constitutional document or work from around the world.

World Constitutions

World Constitutions Illustrated contains the current constitution of every country in the world in its original language. Where multiple original-language versions exist, we will provide them. Most countries also include at least one English translation. Since translations depend on and reveal the preferences of makers and time, we are providing you with multiple points of view.

We are working to identify and include source documents for every historical constitution of the world. As historical documents are identified, they will be added to the database in chronological order. Documents identified but not yet included are listed to create a bibliography and documentary history of the constitutional development. For every constitutional document, researchers can find the original text, amending laws, consolidated text, and important related texts. We also link you to scholarly articles* and commentary.

Classic Constitutional Books

Included are thousands of classic books on constitutions, constitutional history and jurisprudence, and political and economic history. There are hundreds of other works that have been identified and will be added in future releases. This collection includes works by some of the greatest legal minds in history, including:

- Aristotle
- Francis Bacon
- Edward Corwin
- Walter Fairleigh Dodd
- Max Farrand
- Henry Hallam
- Jean Louis de Lolme
- Henry Maine
- Frederic Maitland
- Karl Marx
- Montague
- Thomas Paine
- Francis Palgrave
- Amos Peaslee
- William Prynne
- Theodore Roosevelt
- Joseph Story
- William Stubbs
- Hannis Taylor
- Francis Newton Thorpe
- Daniel Webster
- Woodrow Wilson

* You must be subscribed to the Law Journal Library to link to the articles.
We are working closely with libraries to bring you these classic works, some of which are centuries old, dating back as far as 1583. If you have classics that would further enhance this unique, one-of-a-kind digital library, please contact us and we will work with you to add them. See the “Be a Contributor” section of this brochure for more details.

Constitutional Periodicals

This library includes more than a dozen legal periodicals focusing on constitutional law. Using Hein’s ScholarCheck, you can see which other law review articles from the Law Journal Library cite the article you are reading and quickly link to those articles!* The following periodicals are included:

- Historia Constitucional
- Historia Constitucional de Colombia
- International Journal of Constitutional Law
- Niles' National Register
- Review of Constitutional Studies
- Seton Hall Constitution Journal
- University of Pennsylvania Journal of Constitutional Law
- Vienna Online Journal of International Constitutional Law
- Bill of Rights Review
- Chinese Social and Political Science Review
- Constitutional Commentary
- Constitutional Forum
- Constitutional Review
- Duke Journal of Constitutional Law & Public Policy
- East European Constitutional Review
- First Amendment Law Review
- Hastings Constitutional Law Quarterly

---

Other Works

Annual Human Rights Reports Submitted to Congress by the U.S. Department of State (1976-current)

The Annual Human Rights Reports Submitted to Congress by the U.S. Department of State are submitted in compliance with Sections 116(d) and 502B(b) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (FAA), as amended, and section 504 of the Trade Act of 1974, as amended. The law provides that the Secretary of State shall transmit to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, “a full and complete report regarding the status of internationally recognized human rights ... (A) in countries that receive assistance under this part, and (B) in all other foreign countries which are members of the United Nations and which are not otherwise the subject of a human rights report under this Act.” Reports are also included on several countries that are not covered by the congressional requirement. The reports cover internationally recognized individual, civil, political, and worker rights as set forth in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

* You must be subscribed to the Law Journal Library to link to the articles.
British & Foreign State Papers (1812-1968)
This library features the complete set of British & Foreign State Papers, one of the greatest collections of legal and political documents ever published. It is an invaluable resource for those researching constitutional law, international treaties and international relations. The collection includes principal documents relating to the political and commercial affairs of nations and their relations with each other since the end of the War in 1814. It contains texts of international treaties, constitutions, and other diplomatic documents such as statements, speeches, declarations, protocols, and communications that are relevant for international relations and practicing international law.

Country Studies
The Country Studies are a series of books published by the Federal Research Division of the United States Library of Congress. Each book pertains to a specific country and contains a description and an analysis of the historical setting and the social, economic, political, and national security systems and institutions, and examines the interrelationships of those systems and the ways they are shaped by both historical and cultural factors. (Each study was written by a multidisciplinary team of social scientists and thus represents the analysis of those authors and should not be construed as an expression of an official United States Government position, policy or decision.)

Modern Legal Systems Cyclopedia
The Modern Legal Systems Cyclopedia comprises introductions to the major legal systems in the world, with coverage ranging from legal education and the way of professional practice, to the form of government and substantive law. This compilation is a result of the efforts of Kenneth Robert Redden, who was a Professor of Law at the University of Virginia for four decades. Professor Redden, later assisted by Linda L. Schleuter, gathered information from hundreds of distinguished contributors from all over the globe in order to present this multi-volume encyclopedia. This work serves as a standard reference work for members of the legal profession in every country, and is also used as a reference work in law schools and other university disciplines.

World Factbook (1981-current)
The World Factbook is prepared by the Central Intelligence Agency for the use of U.S. Government officials. Presented in almanac form, it includes information about the history, people, government, economy, geography, communications, transportation, military, and transnational issues for 266 independent states, dependencies, areas of special sovereignty, and governments from around the world. HeinOnline’s coverage begins in 1981 and continues through the most recently published edition.
Country Links

Every country is linked directly to its primary and secondary resources!

Current & Historical Constitutions
- Original text and original language
- English translation
- Amending Laws
- Consolidated Texts
- List of all related documents identified
- Indication of the most current documents

Links to Scholarly Law Review Articles*
- Thousands of links to articles carefully reviewed and chosen by our editors
- Links to more articles * discussing the political and constitutional development of a country’s constitution

Links to Secondary Resources
- Direct links to the country’s entry in the following resources:
  - Each year of the World Factbook
  - Country Studies
  - Modern Legal Systems Cyclopedia
  - Annual Human Rights Reports Submitted to Congress by the U.S. Department of State
  - Links to chapters and sections from within the classic books that specifically discuss the country

Bibliography of Select Constitutional Books
- Our editors created a bibliography of select books related to the study of constitutional development of each country

Links to Other Online Sources
- Quickly link to other online resources, such as:
  - Portals of the World
  - World Factbook (for the most recent information)
  - GlobaLex
  - Wikipedia
  - Government web site of each country
  - And more!

* You must be subscribed to the Law Journal Library to link to the articles.
View Key Metadata for Each Constitution

When browsing or searching constitutional documents, you will see the “more information icon” next to each one or a link in your search result that says “Document Summary”. This icon or link will display key information about that constitutional document, including:

- Description of the Document
- Document Date
- Document Source
- Document Source Location
- Promulgated Date
- Language of Origin
- Language of Document
- Country Editor’s Name
- Country Editor’s Bio
- Notes concerning the particular version of the text

Flexible Search Options

This library features faceted searching. You can search across a number of different fields, depending on the type of document you are looking for. You can search across the full text of constitutional documents or search by the description or title of a document, adoption date, document language, effective date, promulgated date, or original language. For books, legal periodicals and other materials, you can search across the full text or by title, author, or volume date.

Use facets to refine your results set by country, document type, date, title, and section type. This means, for example, you could run a search across everything for “constitutional law” and then narrow your results to only Constitutional Periodicals or Constitutional Documents involving France. With faceted searching, you manipulate the results for your research purposes.

* You must be subscribed to the Law Journal Library to link to the articles.
Additional Sources of Constitutional Law

Law Review Articles*
In addition to the scholarly articles related to each country, our editors have hand-selected key scholarly articles from HeinOnline’s Law Journal Library that relate to Constitutional Law. Using Hein’s ScholarCheck, you can link to other scholarly articles that cite the editors’ picks.*

External Web Sites:
Our editors have also identified and provided links to a number of external web sites relevant to the study of Constitutional Law. These include the Comparative Constitutions Project at www.comparativeconstitutionsproject.org, Constitutionmaking.org, Guide to Law Online: Nations of the World from the Library of Congress, Government Gazettes Online, and many more!

Bibliography of Select Constitutional Books:
We are identifying even more resources that are available elsewhere with a bibliography covering specific countries and regions as well as general and global constitutional topics.

Help Us Build the World’s Greatest Collection
Our goal is to create the greatest constitutional collection in the world by bringing constitutional documents, periodicals, works, and books together in one place. As a company, we have created a platform where scholars can collaborate and contribute their works to enhance this universal collection. For every country, we are working to complete the hierarchy and add more books, more links to scholarly articles, and more links to online sources. In doing so, we invite you to collaborate and contribute, especially if you have access to foreign law collections! If you have a book, constitutional document, suggestion for an article, or any other work you want to contribute to this project, please contact us at marketing@wshein.com or click on the “Contribute to the Project” button from within the collection in HeinOnline.

If you are a scholar specializing in the constitutional law of a specific country and are interested in becoming an expert “Country Editor” for this project, contact us at marketing@wshein.com. We acknowledge all those who contribute and recognize their contributions within the collection. Country Editors will be acknowledged on the specific country page, accompanied by their bio.

Digital Content Ownership Options, & MARC21 Records
There are a variety of subscription options available for this library.

Digital content ownership is also available and includes ownership rights to the PDF files of the scanned images of all pages contained within the library through 12/31/2016. This does not include the law review articles that are linked to from within the Law Journal Library.

For more information about this collection, about digital ownership or to learn about the subscription options available, please contact your sales representative, or contact a member of our Marketing department at marketing@wshein.com.

* You must be subscribed to the Law Journal Library to link to the articles.
Jefri Jay Ruchti was born in Montreal, Canada (1949), named for John Jay the first Chief Justice. He attended the University of Wisconsin (as had his grandfather, father and brother) and the University of Chicago. He began actively collecting the texts of historical and current Constitutions in 1984, mentored through the following years as an editor and translator by Gisbert H. Flanz (1916-2015). He has pursued an independent career as an artist, working primarily in dry media on Japanese paper, exhibiting widely in the United States. He lives with his wife of 39 years, Leigh Whiteman, in Guilford, Connecticut.