Subject Compilations of State Laws

Award-Winning Resource

Subject Compilations of State Laws has long been recognized as the most comprehensive source for identifying thousands of articles, books, government documents, looseleaf services, court opinions and Internet sites that compare state laws on hundreds of subjects. The first volume, 1960-1979, compiled by Lynn Foster and Carol Boast, won the AALL Joseph L. Andrews Bibliographical Award in 1982. In 2009 the database version of this collection won the 2009 AALL Best New Product Award. The series has been previously chosen for Best Legal Reference Books and has been called "unique," "priceless" and "irreplaceable." While the print series has been discontinued, its database counterpart is now updated biannually by editor Meg Butler to ensure records are current.

About the Database

The Subject Compilations of State Laws database has revolutionized historical state subject searching—there is no longer a need to browse the twenty-plus print volumes in the print series. Currently, the database contains more than 28,000 bibliographic records, many with extensive annotations, spanning approximately 3,500 subjects, including timely topics such as abortion, firearms, public health, gender, hate crimes, immigration, and much more.

Most importantly, the annotations link directly to articles and other documents residing in HeinOnline. In all, more than 14,000 records link to HeinOnline periodicals, while the majority of other records link to case law or external websites. Additionally, users are able to enjoy access to the current and all prior volumes in the series, as well as other related works, including direct links to more than 670 full-text documents within HeinOnline.

Also included in this collection is the State Law Index: An Index and Digest to the Legislation of the States of the United States Enacted During the Biennium, volumes 1-12 (1925-1948). This index, published biennially by the Legislative Reference Service of the Library of Congress, is a valuable source for identifying, session laws by subject that were enacted by the various states during the years involved.
