Part 1 - History of American Taxation

Featuring the Carlton Fox Collection Internal Revenue Acts of the United States, 1909-1950

Carlton Fox, a lawyer in the Justice Department in the twentieth century, compiled the history of legislation of nearly 48 years of internal revenue laws, making it the largest legislative history ever on the topic and the most complete history available! This 146-volume set was originally compiled by Fox in 1950. Only six sets of the original version are known to have been produced.

This collection contains complete documentary materials for federal tax and revenue research, including joint committee reports, internal revenue regulations, treasury regulations, sales tax rulings, revenue law reports, bills, slip laws hearings, and much more!

Included are titles related to:

- Income tax
- Excise tax
- Unemployment tax
- Estate and gift tax
- Social security tax
- And more!

A custom-built index tool allows researchers to quickly locate a document in HeinOnline, similar to using printed index volumes. It also enables users to search across decades of tax laws, thus tracing the development of the law back to its inception.

Also Includes the 1954 Internal Revenue Code PLUS More Than 50 Other Legislative Histories

The Internal Revenue Code was enacted into law on August 16, 1954. This event marked the first comprehensive revision of our internal revenue laws since before the turn of the century and the enactment of the income tax. This major revision not only reorganized and restated the past laws to make them more understandable, but also deleted obsolete material and, most importantly, included many substantive changes. In general, the purpose of these changes was to remove inequities, end harassment of the taxpayer, and allow for future expansion of production and employment.

Supplementing this major tax code overhaul are more than 45 other legislative histories focused on taxation.

Notable legislative histories include:

- Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act: A Legislative History of Public Law No. 111-147
- American Taxpayer Relief Act of 2012: A Legislative History of Public Law No. 112-240
- Alternative Minimum Tax (2009)
- Deficit Control and the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Act from 1985
- Legislative History of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997

Hearings and Monographs of the Temporary National Economic Committee

The Temporary National Economic Committee was established in 1938 to investigate the concentration of economic power in, and financial control over, production and distribution of goods and services. The hearings and monographs that resulted from this investigation are important today as a basic study of investigating the economic problems of the present time. These rare documents are available in a fully searchable digital format for the first time!

Stock Market Crash of 1929, Banking Acts from 1913-1955
