

HeinOnline has created a monumental collection of all original, major treaty sets including Rohn's treaty index, Dumont, Bevans, Martens, League of Nations, United States, and United Nations treaties all together in one easy-to-use, fully searchable database.

In this guide, learn how to:

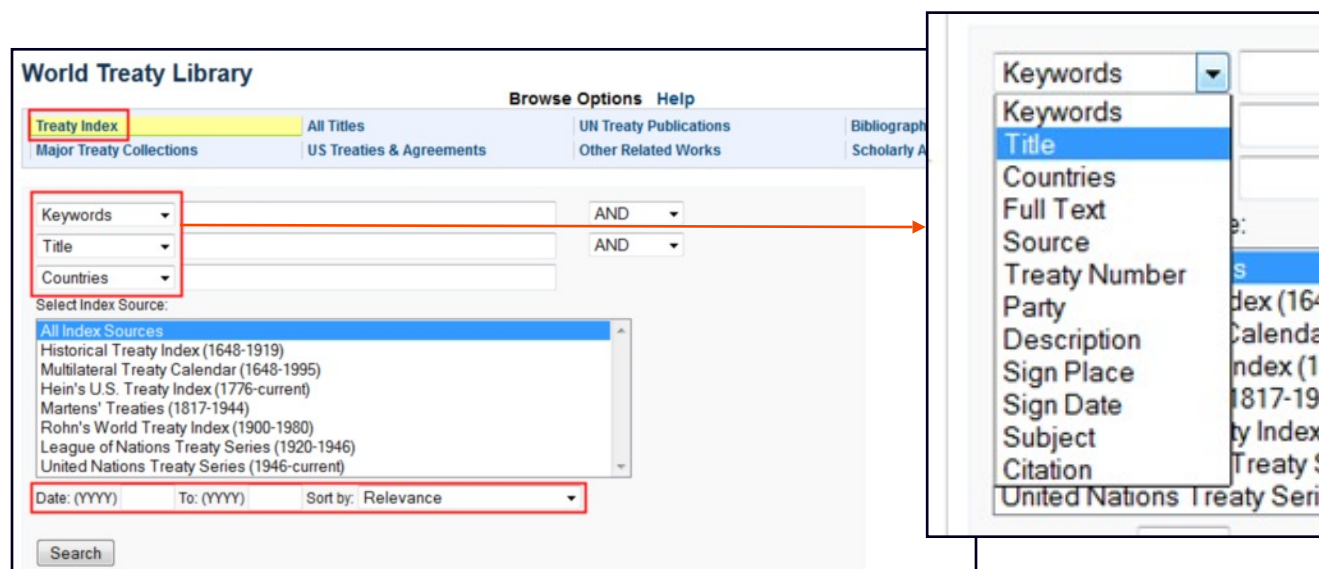

1. Search using the Treaty Index
2. Browse various treaty sets
3. Conveniently access both US Treaties & Agreements and UN Treaty Publications
4. Search the other content in the World Treaty Library
5. Print or download documents in the World Treaty Library
6. Access treaty-related scholarly articles and a bibliography of related publications

1. Search using the Treaty Index

Like most libraries in HeinOnline, the World Treaty Library has a series of Browse Options on the collection homepage:

The first option is the Treaty Index. Clicking this option will open a search screen, giving the user the ability to easily search across all major treaty indexes at the same time:

Use the drop-down menu in each search box to select your preferred search option from twelve different metadata fields, such as keyword, country, full-text, etc. Highlight one or more individual titles to limit your search to those titles only. Use the date range to further narrow the scope of your results. If the full text of any treaty found using these indexes is available in HeinOnline, a link to that treaty will be available. View the full metadata field chart on the next page.

Field	Description
Keywords	Search all metadata fields of all treaty indexes
Title	Popular name or short title of the treaty
Source	Where the treaty information was found
Treaty Number	KAV or TIAS number
Party	Countries that signed the treaty
Description	The long title or description of the treaty; often includes description of what the treaty is about and when and where it was signed
Sign Place	Location where treaty was signed (can be signed in more than one place)
Sign Date	Date the treaty was signed (can be more than one sign date)
Subject	Topic of the treaty; usually assigned by the editors of the various treaty resources
Citation	Citation information for a treaty; indicates specifically where the treaty is published

Example:

Search for treaties pertaining to immigration to which the United States is a party from 1960 to current. Results will display a summary of the treaty information, and will link users to the full text of the treaty when the treaty is available in HeinOnline. Users will also be able to determine the source of the treaty from the results.

2. Browse various treaty sets

From the Browse Option box on the collection homepage, select All Titles or Major Treaty Collections. The list of available titles will appear and can be expanded by clicking the + next to any title. The All Titles option has a convenient letter index to help quickly navigate the extensive list of titles. Adjust the list of titles and browse by Title, Author, or Date. Expand the contents of any volume by clicking the + next to the volume.

The screenshot shows the 'Browse Options' page with the 'All Titles' tab selected. Below the tabs, there is a 'Browse by:' section with 'Title | Author | Date' options. A letter index is visible, with 'B' highlighted. The 'Major Treaty Collections' section lists 'British and Foreign State Papers' (Vols. 1-170, 1812-1968) and 'Coleccion Completa de los Tratados, Convenciones, Capitulaciones, Armisticios y Otros Actos Diplomaticos de Todos los Estados de la America Latina' (Calvo, Carlos, 11 v. Paris: Libreria De A. Durand, 1862-1869). On the right, a sidebar shows the contents of volume 11 (1823-1824), including 'Title Page', 'Table of Contents', 'Volume 11', and 'Index'.

Example:

If you are searching for the Documents on Disarmament and Nuclear Weapon Testing before the United Nations General Assembly dated September 20, 1961, and you know this can be found in the British and Foreign State Papers but you don't know where, perform a text search by clicking the Search tab, Advanced Search, and enter (in quotation marks) "Documents on Disarmament and Nuclear Weapon Testing before the United Nations General Assembly" into the Text field. In the Date range fields, enter 1961 to 1962:

The screenshot shows the 'Search World Treaty Library' interface. The 'Text' field contains the search query: "Documents on Disarmament and Nuclear Weapon Testing before the United Nations General Assembly". The 'Date' range is set to 1961 to 1962. The 'Search' button is visible. Below the search results, the first result is '166 British & Foreign State Papers 1 (1961-1962)'. The 'View Matching Text Pages' link is highlighted. The matching text is displayed, showing the 'Disarmament and Nuclear Weapon Testing before the United Nations General Assembly' document, dated September 20, 1961. The text is highlighted in green.

Click Search and you will receive one result, which is the section of British and Foreign State Papers that you need. You'll see the matching text highlighted in green by clicking View Matching Text Pages.

3. Access both US Treaties & Agreements and UN Treaty Publications

From the Browse Option box on the collection homepage, select either US Treaties & Agreements or UN Treaty Publications to access each subcollection. Users of the World Treaty Library have access to all content contained in the U.S. Treaties & Agreements Library and to treaty-related United Nations publications.

US Treaties & Agreements

Browse the content of this library by document type, such as Treaty Publications, or by Treaty Guides and Indexes. Access treaty-related Hearings or link to treaty-related websites external to HeinOnline.

4. Searching the Other Content in the World Treaty Library

In addition to the indexed treaties, there are more than 500 treaty and treaty-related publications contained in this library that can be searched. As in other HeinOnline collections, click the Search tab located toward the top left of the screen to reveal various searching options. In the World Treaty Library, use the Advanced Search tool or use the Treaty Index Search discussed in item #1. Clicking Advanced Search will display the search tool shown in the example below. Users can search by full text, title, or author. NOTE: The Advanced Search tool searches the entire content of the World Treaty Library, whereas the Treaty Index Search tool searches only the Treaty Index.

Example:

Choose Other Related Works to browse titles pertaining to treaties and treaty research that are unique to this collection; to search only this section, select it in the advanced search tool:
